

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

A Bibliography of the "Religio Medici"

BY

CHARLES WILLIAMS, F.R.C.S.E.

NORWICH, 1907.

AT the present time there are in existence seven manuscript copies of the Religio Medici, as it was originally composed, and before the idea of publication had entered the mind of the Author.

The appearance of two anonymous editions of the work printed in one year—1642—without Sir Thomas Browne's knowledge and consent, and without his name attached to either of them, determined him to acknowledge and revise the work for the press, and the first authorized Edition appeared in the following year, 1643.

The Religio Medici was written for the Author's own private "exercise and satisfaction," and was not intended for publication. Several copies were transcribed, some of them by the Author's own hand, and for six years at least they circulated among his intimate friends.

The seven manuscript copies differ considerably, but are of equal authenticity, and all are examples of the early seventeenth-century handwriting.

An imperfect copy exists in the British Museum. It consists of the first fifteen sections, but is interesting in possessing a date—1639—three years before the first spurious Edition of the work appeared, "and as containing some curious variations from every other manuscript and edition." Wilkin observes "it differs very much from all the others."

The second copy—a perfect one—is preserved in the Rawlinson Collection at the Bodleian Library, and has the following note in Dr. Rawlinson's handwriting:—"This Copy of the 'Religio Medici,' by Sir Thomas Browne, is very different from all printed."

The third, in the Library of Pembroke College, Oxford, was presented in 1783 by the Rev. T. Wrigley. It is a complete copy, and is looked upon as one of the treasures of the College.

The fourth copy, also perfect, is in the possession of Dr. F. de Havilland Hall, Wimpole Street, London. An examination of it by Dr. Greenhill enabled him to say, "that it does not agree with any of the MSS. collated by Wilkin."

The fifth is in the Library of the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford. This Manuscript had laid obscured for over two-and-a-half centuries in a bound volume of historical pieces bearing the dates from 1613 to 1631. In 1906 it came into the possession of Dr. William Osler, F.R.S.

Two complete copies exist in the Castle Museum, Norwich. They formerly belonged to Mr. Simon Wilkin, and on the 19th of October, 1905, were presented to the City of Norwich by Mr. Martin Hood Wilkin, of Sidmouth.

One "is in foolscap 8vo., pp. 83, beautifully and closely written in a very small hand, the poetry and italics in a taller Italian hand—about forty lines in a page. It has the title, 'Religio Medici,' in the same hand."—Wilkin.

The other is in 4to., pp. 186; written in a much larger hand—and, without question, in that of Sir Thomas Browne. At the head of the first page, and in a different hand, are the words "Religio Medici." In the same hand, a long Latin note occupies the fly-leaf; this attributes the work to Dr. Alexander Read (Reid), who died in 1641.

This Bibliography of the Religio Medici is compiled from the lists drawn up by Simon Wilkin and Dr. W. A. Greenhill; the former terminates with the Edition printed in 1736, the latter with the Edition published by Longmans in 1874. Since that date 16 Editions have issued from the press, making in all—to the end of 1906—50 English and 16 Foreign.

The Bibliography of Editions prepared by Dr. Greenhill and prefixed to his Edition of Religio Medici, published by Macmillan in 1881, is most carefully drawn up, and in all probability is as perfect as it could be made. The information contained in this Bibliography is mostly derived from that source; to it are added the 18 Editions of recent years.

During the life of Sir Thomas Browne, 23 Editions of his work appeared in print, 13 were English and 10 Foreign—7 Latin, 1 Dutch, 1 French, and 1 German. From the year of his death—1682—to 1906, 43 Editions have been published, 37 are English (4 being American), 2 Latin, 2 Dutch, 1 French, and 1 German. This makes a total of 66 Editions in 264 years. On the authority of Sir Thomas Browne, the work had also been translated into High Dutch and Italian.

The large number of Editions through which the Religio Medici has passed must afford some criterion of the estimation in which the book has been held by the people of all nations.

Sir Thomas Browne never put his name to his book, and, when late in life he spoke of it slightly as "a piece of mine published long ago."

The words "Corrected and Amended" are to be found on the title-page of nearly all the Editions to 1682, and on Editions after that date. They cannot claim to any such credit.

The Edition of 1643 was certainly corrected and greatly improved by Thomas Browne himself. He divided it into two parts, and each part into sections, but as to the subsequent Editions claiming to be "Corrected and Amended," they do not profess to contain any special corrections derived from the Author's own hand, for the same errors are continued from one Edition to another, and in some cases most unauthorized alterations have been made, and even quotations from the works of other authors have been added to the text.

It would appear that when once the Author had given, in an authentic form, "a true and full copy" of the work to the world, which he did in 1643, he took no more interest in the subject. He did not even take the trouble to see that the Errata, which had been specially noticed on a separate leaf, were corrected in subsequent Editions, although on the title-page of nearly every impression which was printed in his lifetime, and even afterwards, the words "Corrected and Amended" are to be seen; the term appears to be a mere form of words without any distinct meaning.

Wilkin states that this copy is more accurate and better printe the former, and therefore is probably the later of the two. On this point Dr. Gr observes: "The first authorized Edition might perhaps be expected to be modelled printer on the second Edition rather than the first, does, in fact, agree with B rather in the number of lines in a page [viz., 26], and in the form of the capital letter A and B differ." Editions in the absence of the words Religio Medici. Sir Thomas Browne evidently adopted this frontispiece, as it not only appears in this, but in every subsequent Edition issued during his lifetime, and he also retained the same title. This Edition contains, when complete, "A letter sent (from Sir Thomas Browne to Sir Kenelm Digby) upon the Information of Animadversions to come forth, upon the imperfect and surreptitious Copy of Religio Medici, whilst this true one was going to the Presse"; Sir K. Digby's answer; a short address from "A.B.," most probably the author; a list of thirty-one Errata (many of which were overlooked or neglected in most of the subsequent Editions), a preface from Sir Thomas Browne "To the Reader." The text (ending on page 184), 3 + 3 p. 6 much enlarged, divided into two parts, each of which is sub-divided into sections. There are 26 lines in a page, and the lines are of the same length as in No. 2, viz., 2½ inches. Some copies contain "Observations on the 22 Stanza in the 9th Canto of Spenser's Faery Queen," by Sir K. Digby, 25 pages, 1644. Although this is the first authorized Edition, it should now be considered as the third English one.

The Edition of 1643 was translated into Latin by John Merryweather, of Magdalen College, Cambridge, and then printed at Leyden in 1644 by F. Hackius. There is no printed title-page, but an engraved frontispiece with the same device as in the English Editions, but reversed, and at the foot of the plate the words "Lugd Batavorum apud Franciscum Hackium A° 1644." It contains a short Latin address from the translator to the Reader; the Author's preface; three copies of Latin verses by T. B. D. A. The text ending on page 244; an Anacephalæosis and a list of Errata follow.

5. 1644. Latin. F. Hackius. Paris. 12<sup>mo</sup>. Norwich Museum.
British Museum.

The usual frontispiece and the words "Juxta Exemp Lug Batavor." It contains 244 pages of text. The French verses in Pt. ii., § 4, are omitted, as well as the Author's and Translator's prefaces, and the three copies of Latin verses. There are three pages of Anacephalæosis.

6. 1644. Latin. F. Hackius. Leyden. 12<sup>mo</sup>. London Medical

A reprint of No. 4. The text ending on page 235. This is probably the Edition mentioned by J. Merryweather, in a letter to Sir T. Browne, as follows: "Hackius, the Leyden printer, hath made a new impression . . . as is easily observable by the difference of the pages, and the omission of the Errata, which were noted in the first, though the title page be the same in both."

7. 1645. English. The Author. A. Crooke. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Norwich Bodleian

The text ends on page 174. Dr. Greenhill calls this a careless reprint with only about one-fourth of the Errata corrected. There is no printed title; the usual frontispiece. It contains a letter from Sir T. Browne to Sir K. Digby's answer, an address from "A.B.," and a preface by Sir Thomas Browne. Edition sometimes has Digby's "Observations on a part of Spenser's Faery Queene" is called the second authorized Edition, but is indeed the fourth English Edition.

8. 1645. English. The Author. A. Crooke. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Bodleian

This is the same Edition as No. 7, but with various corrections made in the sheets while they were being printed off. These two Editions appeared the same year. Dr. Greenhill says: "In order to distinguish them, it may be that at p. 11, line 7, No. 7 has leave, No. 8, have; at p. 88, line 1, 7 has neatest, 8 has at p. 153, line 6, 7 has doth but, 8 doth not. These are probably the only three in which the reading of No. 7 is better than that of No. 8." The fifth Edition.

9. 1648. English. The Author. A. Crooke. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Watt Bibli

An Edition of this date is mentioned by Dr. Watt [Biblioth Britan]. Dr. C. believes that, between 1645 and 1656, an Edition was published which was reckoned the third Edition, as No. 12 is called the fourth. A MS. note in Thomas Keck of the Edition of 1643 (in the Bodleian Library) was thought by Dr. Greenhill to be an Edition in 1654 [the date of the Preface to Keck's "Annotations"], but this Edition has not yet been discovered. The usual frontispiece-title and at the foot of the plate the words, "Religio cum Annotationibus, Argentorati Sumptibus Friderici Spoor, 1652." It contains Prefaces of the Editor, the Translator, the Author, and the Paris Editor. The text has Annotations at the end of each section, the Anacephalæsis, an Index and a list of Errata on the last page. The text ends on p. 440.

| In the first collective Edition of Sir Thomas Browne's works, dated 1686, Dr. Greenhill thinks it is probably a reprint of No. 19, called "the eighth Edition, corrected and amended." This Edition is said to have been edited by Archbishop Tenison, but this is doubtful. The Archbishop's Name is appended to the prefatory notice to "Certain Miscellany Tracts" which form part of the Volume. This is the only reason for the statement "Annotations" and "Observations" also follow, both dated 1686. The Text ends on page 45. The Half-title to the Religio Medici is dated 1685. S. 37. 1835. English. Simon Wilkin. W. Pickering. London. 8<sup>vo</sup>. Norwich Museum Free Library Norwich.

In the second volume of Browne's Works, dated 1835, although the first is dated 1836, in four volumes, carefully edited by Simon Wilkin, F.L.S., and called fifteenth Edition, which Dr. Greenhill says "it certainly is not." The text is mainly from No. 3, but with numerous alterations taken from the MSS. and the other Editions. Under the text there is a notice of the principal various readings, copious collection of Notes, partly selected from Keck and partly original; and 1 "Observations" are added at the end. There is a list of "Additions and Corrections" chiefly caused by Wilkin having overlooked the Table of Errata in No. 3 until his edition was printed off. The twenty-first Edition.

A fac-simile Edition of Browne's Works, in four volumes, was published by H. G. in 1846, in royal octavo, without any alteration of text. This is scarce.

38. 1838. English. J. A. St. John. Joseph Rickerby. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Bodleian Library Professor Os

Prefixed to the Hydriotaphia. Edited by J. A. St. John. Contains a Pelir Discourse and Notes by the Editor, and a Table of Contents. pp. 147. No statement as to what text has been followed. The sections are unnumbered. The twenty Edition.

This was re-published by Henry Washbourne in 1841, 1845, and 1848, but with alteration, except that the 1845 Edition contains Christian Morals. It was also published in the sixth volume of "The Masterpieces of English Prose Literature," London, 183 British Museum

39. 1844. English. John Peace. Longmans. London. 8<sup>vo</sup>. British Museum Bodleian Library

Prefixed to the Christian Morals, carefully edited by John Peace, Librarian of Bristol City Library, with a Preface by the Editor, a useful Table of Contents, a selection of "resemblant passages from Cowper's Task, and a Copious Index of unusual words. It omits all notes except those by the Author. The text is a careful reprint of No. 3 with a few alterations, and ends on page 148. The twenty-third Edition.

40. 1844. English. J. Peace. Lea & Blanchard. Philadelphia. 8<sup>vo</sup>. Professor Osborn Charles Will

A republication of the preceding Edition. The text ends on page 127. twenty-fourth Edition.

This was reprinted without any alteration by Roberts Brothers, Boston, U.S. 1878. British Museum

46. 1874. English. W. P. Smith, M.A. Rivingtons. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Norwich M British Mus

Edited for the series of "English School Classics." Wilkin's text, as given in No. 42, has been followed. The text ends on page 81. The notes occupy 42 pages. The thirtieth Edition.

47. 1881. English. W. A. Greenhill, M.D. & Co. Macmillan London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. Norwich M

Prefixed to the Letter to a Friend and the Christian Morals, very carefully revised by Dr. W. A. Greenhill, with a Preface by the Editor. A Chronological Table of Dates connected with Sir Thomas Browne, The Discovery of the Remains of Sir Thomas Browne in 1840, Notices of former Editors of the Religio Medici, A perfect Index of Editions, English and Foreign. A List of Editions of the Letter to a Friend and List of the Editions of the Christian Morals, Collations of some old Editions of Religio Medici, Notes Critical and Explanatory occupying 60 pages, and A general glossarial Index of unusual words and phrases occupying 70 pages. The text, which ends on page 124, is taken from the Thirteenth Edition (1682), the last that was published during the Author's lifetime. Marginal Abstracts of the different Sections. It forms part of the "Golden Treasury Series," and is unquestionably the most elaborate and perfect of all the Editions of Religio Medici. The thirty-first Edition.

This was reprinted in 1885, with numerous additions and corrections, and in 1892, 1898, 1901, 1904 without any alteration.

48. 1883. English. W. A. Greenhill. Elliot Stock. London. Small 8<sup>vo</sup>. British Muse Norwich Mu

This is a fac-simile of the first surreptitious Edition published in 1642, with a Copy of the frontispiece-title, an Introduction by the Editor, and a Bibliography of Religio Medici. The text occupies 190 pages. The thirty-second Edition.

49. 1886. English. Henry Morley. Cassell & Co. London. 12<sup>mo</sup>. Norwich Mus

Edited by Professor Henry Morley, for Cassell's "National Library." There is a short Introduction; no Notes. The text ends on page 138. It is not stated from which Edition the text is taken. The thirty-third Edition.

A reprint was issued in 1892 and 1905.

A duplicate Edition was published by Cassell & Co., London, 1886, in English with a totally different title-page, reading "Religio Medici" (by Sir Thomas Browne, 1642) with the "Observations" of Sir Kenelm Digby, Leipzig, Tressner and Schramm might be called another Edition.
